How to Choose a Course

Preliminary Course Catalog

Preliminary course catalog

In the preliminary course catalog, you'll find a list of courses that may be available during upcoming semesters.

It also includes information on courses offered in previous terms.

You can filter the course list by language of instruction (English or Spanish), campus, school, and department. If you need more detailed information about a specific course, you can view its syllabus.

Understanding the courses

Tec de Monterrey courses' code contains bits of information, such as the course level and the area of study. This information is particularly relevant for your learning agreement and course selection. Here's an example of how to read a course code:

Course code
MT 1 001 B

Course name
Marketing Insight Develop Strategies

- The letters (at the beginning of the code) specify to which area of knowledge the course belongs (For example: MT is for Marketing).
- The numbers indicate the semester in which our TEC students register the course, for example:
 - Code that contains 1000 are first level courses offered during the first semesters of a bachelor (Semesters 1 to 3).
 - Code that contains 2000 are intermediate or advanced level courses offered during the middle of a bachelor (Semesters 3 to 6).
 - Code that contains 3000 are advanced level courses offered during the last semester of a bachelor (Semesters 6 to 8).
- The letter at the end of some courses stands for a block or a concentration (B for blocks, C for Concentrations).

Note. A Tec de Monterrey bachelor is usually 8 to 9 semesters long.

Classes and Schedule

How a Tec semester schedule can look like

Usually Tec de Monterrey semesters are composed by courses, blocks and Tec Weeks, and is divided into 3 cycles that last 5 weeks each.

- Courses are like a traditional course, and that can last 5, 10, or 15 weeks depending on the subject and credits.
- Blocks are courses that contain challenges connected to reality and theoretical modules. You can only participate in one block per period.
- TEC Weeks are weeks between cycles where you can participate in an activity or experience designed to develop different skills. Tec Weeks are not mandatory for international students.

In the case of a Concentration, this specialization is equivalent to several blocks and courses that runs through the whole semester.

Formative Units	CYCLE 1 Weeks 1–5	TEC WEEK 6	CYCLE 2 Weeks 7–11	TEC WEEK 12	CYCLE 3 Weeks 13–17	TEC WEEK 18	Credits

In case you don't have a health insurance and are looking for a recommendation, we suggest the one offered by CHUBB since it is a Tec de Monterrey institutional provider for international traveling. For more information visit: <https://intercambiostec.bluessistance.com/asegura>

Application Process

1. Get Nominated (By your home university)

Contact your study abroad advisor at your university and inform them of your interest in doing an exchange at Tec de Monterrey.

Note. Let them know about the campus and program of your interest, so they can choose those options on your nomination.

2. Complete the Application Form (After getting nominated)

Once you have been nominated to Tec de Monterrey, you will receive an email with a personal link to fill out the Application for admission. You must complete the following steps:

1. Create a username and password
2. Log in and complete the required information in the online application
3. Upload a copy of your current passport.
 - The passport must be in a single file and the information must be legible.
 - Your passport must be valid when you apply and until 7 days minimum after you finish your exchange.

Note.

- If any detail of your application requires additional review, we will contact you.
- If you are applying to a particular program, such as double degree, medical clerkships, etc. other documents and/or interviews may be required.

Traveling to Mexico

Visa

The visa required to study in Mexico is defined by the nationality and the time of stay in Mexico.

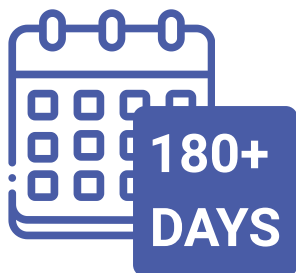

Non-restricted nationalities

Require an FMM (migratory form obtained upon entry to the country), and do not need a student visa if the stay is for 180 days or less (a semester or summer/winter terms).

Restricted nationalities

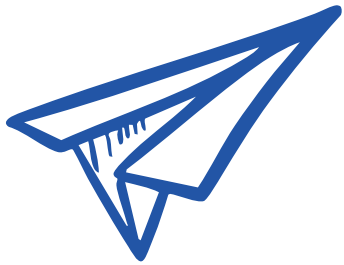

Require a visa that must be issued at any Mexican consulate or embassy, regardless of the time of stay. To review the list of restricted nationalities, visit: Mexican Immigration Institute website

Staying for more than 180 days?

Any student staying for more than 180 days (for more than one semesters), regardless of the nationality, will require a visa issued at any Mexican consulate before arriving to Mexico.
